

MyZuzah Moments - February 4, 2022

This week the MyZuzah team continued to lay the groundwork for our domestic violence support program, as well as preparing to train our hundreds of partners to use our new CRM/database, which will be known as MyZuzah Connect. We also had some very interesting conversations with potential new partners, which could significantly expand our impact in Israel. More details to come!

Partner Organization Updates:

At every bris, the mohel usually closes the proceedings with the blessing that the child should grow up to a life of torah, mitzvot, and good deeds— but rarely is the next mitzvah performed anything more than a festive meal. Thanks to MyZuzah's partnership with mohel Rabbi Michael Henesch (right), we helped the Weiss Family outside Baltimore immediately follow the bris of their son with a new mezuzah on their front door— truly moving from strength to strength!

In Ames, Iowa, Rabbi Leibel Jacobson finished placing 20 mezuzahs on the doors of students at Iowa State University— and he expects to place another 10 by the end of February!

Rabbi Mendel Weingarten at Chabad of the University of Washington showed off some of their work on LinkedIn, with a rather moving story:

This past Friday night, we had a discussion about how to fight antisemitism.

We also spoke about how we can remember the Holocaust- through action.

Students are responding in two major ways.

🌟 Some students have responded by putting a mezuzah on their door.

🌟 Others are responding by signing up to join a weeklong trip to Poland over spring break.

I can't wait to see how this trip impact the students...

I heard about MyZuzah from a friend on social media. I wanted a mezuzah for many reasons. It's a reminder of the mitzvot, it is a visual affirmation of my identity and Jewishness, and when I recite the sh'ma, I can connect to the v'ahavta where it says 'inscribe them to your doorposts' on a deeper level.
