

MyZuzah Moments - July 1, 2022

Our team held an interesting planning meeting this week with partners in Chicago for a new community to support– Holocaust survivors living in Illinois, and potentially the entire U.S. Following our recent presentation to the Network of Jewish Human Service Agencies, staff from the Jewish United Fund of Chicago's Council for Jewish Elderly reached out to explore a joint project, and we are excited to begin serving this vulnerable population.

MyZuzah was also treated to a preview of the TorahLive gamified learning platform, where students that complete learning sections will earn digital currency that can be redeemed for real-world impact activities, like sponsoring a mezuzah!

It is always a pleasure when transatlantic partnerships produce reciprocal visits! This week, the Chief Rabbi of Baku, Azerbaijan, Rabbi Zamir Isayev, came to Washington, DC as part of an official Azerbaijani delegation. Rabbi Isayev met Alex last month in Munich, and Alex was able to catch up with him briefly to deliver 50 mezuzot to help with the “total mezuzafication” of the Baku Jewish community.

Partner Updates:

Chabad at the University of Washington shared on LinkedIn how a recent graduate asked for their help to put a mezuzah up on their new apartment:

The University of Washington class of 2022 may have graduated...

Hopefully, they're taking all they've learned and unpacking the skills and lessons into the real world.

Here's how it starts:

A '22 graduate reached out for help putting up his mezuzah on his new apartment door.

The reach out was very touching... many of these students would have never imagined putting a mezuzah on their door in the first place... let alone taking it with them to their post-college life.

Am Yisroel Chai!

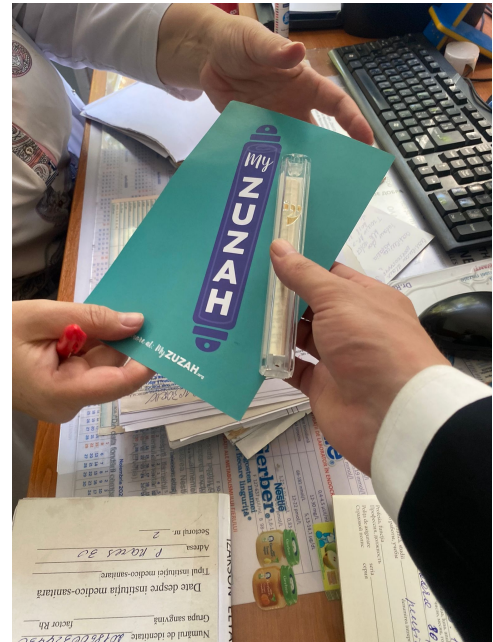

Rabbi Shimon Isaacson, in Moldova, shared a mezuzah with a doctor who runs a family practice clinic in Kishinev!

Individual recipient messages & photos:

I love it so much, I feel like I'm somehow more Hewish than before. I heard about this organization by someone on tiktok! Thank you so much for allowing me to have a mezuzah.
