

MyZuzah Moments - October 11, 2024

Bolstered by orders from the #MyZuzah/YourZuzah publicity, our shipments traveled 117,434 domestic miles in September!

The massive outpouring of support from the campaign is really astonishing – and the level of engagement we are seeing among Jews and non-Jews with the mezuzah is a great achievement. We've heard of non-Jewish voices doing significant research and discussion into mezuzahs, and a lot of positive feedback from across the Jewish community. More media and endorsements to come!

Partner Updates:

Rabbi Yehuda Niasof, resident chazzan, mohel, and pilot of Sydney's Central Synagogue, normally sends us details of mezuzahs he puts up following a bris, but last week he shared two awesome stories. The first couple are a renowned Australian husband-and-wife team of videographers, and Rabbi Niasoff visited their home to check on a High Holiday project they were editing for the synagogue, when he noticed that they did not have a mezuzah. The couple explained, ashamedly, that they had taken it down some years ago during a renovation and then misplaced it. So, Rabbi Niasoff pulled out one of our mezuzahs, and made them very happy. Click to watch the video of their installation!

The younger couple recently moved in together, and the girl's father insisted that they have a mezuzah on their door.

University of Virginia Hillel, in Charlottesville, VA, hosted a mezuzah-decorating party just before Rosh Hashana, and you can see the many excited students who kicked their year off the right way, with a new mezuzah on their dorms:

Individual Recipient Stories:

Bruck Clift, Palmer, AL

My facilitator was very nice and eager to help, and Alex spoke with me on the call which was very helpful. I had a pleasant experience and am grateful for being able to receive and put up a mezuzah for free. I heard about MyZuzah online after recognizing that I wanted to put up a mezuzah this year. I feel more protected and spiritually connected. I appreciate the care that the organization and donors put into supporting the Jewish people. Esther Bistricher, New York, NY

Sami Luquin, Savannah, GA

